

The Qu'Appelle School for Mission and Ministry

A Guide to Using Becoming the Story We Tell as a resource for Lenten Bible Studies, Small Groups and Preaching

Tuesday January 12th 2021

7:00 to 9:00 p.m.

on Zoom

Many faithful members of the Church worry that the great tradition we inherited has lost its passion.
We need to know how to renew our engagement
in Christ crucified and risen.

That is how we become the story we tell.

And that is how, together, we will lay foundations for bearing witness to the Good News and making new disciples.

Please join us on Tuesday January 12th, 2021 for a session with The Ven. Dr. Jay Koyle, one of the developers of Becoming the Story We Tell. This helpful resource, based on the lectionary, can be used in small groups, bible studies, and as an aid to preaching during Lent and Eastertide. Its aim is to enable us to “refocus our life together around the defining moment in our story: the death and resurrection of our Lord.” Dr. Koyle will discuss and guide us through the use of this collection of resources which has been adapted for the Church in a time of pandemic. It is available online and can be downloaded free of cost.

NOTE: This file available online provides both a STRATEGY and a collection of RESOURCES for renewing our life together in Christ. There is no point in printing this file as a whole — although you may find pages that are worth printing, once you have explored the strategy and made some decisions about how you wish to use it. The links in blue will take you to any document you wish to explore.

Registration deadline is Monday January 11th 2021

There is no cost for this event.

Contact Archdeacon Catherine at archdeacon.catherine@sasktel.net to register

The Rev. Dr. Jay Koyle is the Congregational Development Officer and Executive Archdeacon of the Diocese of Algoma. He has a long and fruitful history of fostering congregational vitality and animating joyful, transformative worship in parish. His doctoral degree is Homiletics. He has also completed graduate work in liturgical studies.